

Victoria Camardi

Victoria Camardi is a family law attorney with Kay Casto & Chaney PLLC, where she focuses her practice on domestic law, including divorce, child custody, protective orders, adoptions, and prenuptial agreements. Known for her compassionate advocacy and thoughtful approach, Victoria is recognized for guiding clients through emotionally charged situations with empathy, professionalism, and strong legal acumen.

Before joining Kay Casto & Chaney in 2025 through the firm's merger with Trump & Trump LC, Victoria practiced in general litigation and consumer finance with Spilman Thomas & Battle in Charleston, West Virginia. She later returned to her hometown of Martinsburg to build her family law practice with Trump & Trump. In 2024, she was honored as a "Best of the Best" family law practitioner in the Eastern Panhandle, reflecting her deep commitment to achieving fair and just outcomes for her clients.

Victoria earned her Juris Doctor from West Virginia University College of Law in 2018, graduating with honors in the Order of the Coif and serving as Executive Notes Editor for the West Virginia Law Review. She also received multiple CALI Awards in Contracts, Criminal Law, Legal Writing, Federal Judicial Externship, and Pre-Trial Litigation. As a law student, she completed a judicial externship with Judge Gina Groh of the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of West Virginia, worked with the Office of the Legislative Counsel in Washington, D.C., and participated in the West Virginia Innocence Project through the clinical law program.

Victoria holds a Bachelor of Arts from the WVU Honors College (2015), where she graduated summa cum laude and was inducted into the Phi Beta Kappa Honor Society. She was also named a Bloom Scholar.

Active in the legal community, Victoria serves as the District 16 Representative on the Young Lawyer Board of the West Virginia State Bar and previously contributed to the Eastern Panhandle Bar Charitable Foundation.
